

The Marbury Family

Those who know Tori would describe her as strong, gentle, determined, kind, wise and full of joy. These qualities have been evident throughout her partnership in our program and have certainly been an asset to her professionally, working as an assistant at a local medical office.

As a single parent, and the challenges that come along with it, the reality of homeownership has felt unattainable to Tori. Today's housing market is as expensive and costly as it's ever been. Thanks to Lakeshore Habitat and the support of friends, family and the greater community, Tori and her daughter are on a path to making this dream a reality.

When asked what owning a home would mean to her and her daughter, Tori said, "This home will be a place to call my very own. It will be a refuge to raise a family, and build memories with my friends and family."
